ANNOUNCEMENT.

For reasons well known to many of the subscribers, the numbers of HEBRAICA—hereafter THE AMERICAN JOURNAL OF SEMITIC LANGUAGES AND LITERATURES—have, during the past three years, been issued irregularly. The work of organizing the University of Chicago, in connection with which the Journal is now published, has made it difficult to devote to the editorial work the necessary amount of time. Henceforth, however, subscribers to the Journal may be assured that there will be no delay.

The policy of the Journal is 1) to encourage the scientific study of the Semitic Languages and Literatures; 2) to furnish information concerning the work of Semitic students, at home and abroad; and 3) to act as a medium for the publication of scientific contributions in these departments.

Articles will be published in German, French, and Latin, as well as in English. Original articles of one to four pages will be classed under "Contributed Notes."

THE AMERICAN JOURNAL OF THEOLOGY

THE AMERICAN JOURNAL OF THEOLOGY, the initial number of which appeared January 1, 1897, is edited by the members of the Divinity Faculty of the University of Chicago. It was introduced to the theological world with simple and definite aims.

The diversity of modern scholarship and wide range of theological investigation demand a journal which shall serve as a medium of communication among all workers in the field of theological thought.

The JOURNAL OF THEOLOGY fills these requirements. It propagates no set of ideas, nor is it limited by any narrow bounds, but, on the contrary, seeks to be the medium of scientific investigation and carefully considered thought in the almost boundless field in which it stands. It offers to scholars of all phases of theological opinion, from all fields of theological investigation, an opportunity to contribute for publication the results of their thought and work.

The purposes of this journal have already met with cordial recognition from a large circle of eminent theologians. The contents of the first volume, aggregating over 1000 pages, and including contributions from eminent theological scholars, testify to this fact.

One of the most valuable features is the department devoted to the announcement and review of new and important publications along the lines of theological thought. This department alone makes the journal indispensable to all interested in these subjects.

While the contents of successive numbers will vary somewhat in character, it is expected that each will, in general, contain:

1. Articles occupying about one-half of the whole number of pages.
2. Documents containing material hitherto unedited or at present inaccessible.
3. Notes upon special topics in theology in the broad sense above outlined.
4. Reviews of recent theological books.
5. Abstracts of current periodical literature.
6. Bibliography—classified according to departments.
